AN APRIL SONG.

(Respectfully dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Wilson by Col. Wm. H. Taylor.)
In April weather, through the fields along,
I heard a maiden singing, and this the maiden's song:
"Through life's April weather—its sunshine and snow,
Hand in hand together, my love and I will go,
In life's April weather, through the coming years,
My love shall have the sunshine, though I may have the tears.
Yes, he shall have the sunshine, and I—and I have the tears.
Time old age may give us—this the song she sang,
"Still, whilst love is with us the heart is ever young,
Through life's April weather hand in hand we'll go,
Heeding not the sunshine, careless of the snow,
Life may bring its troubles with the coming years,
Yet he shall have the sunshine, tho' I should have the tears."
By the winding river, see, her love appears,
Well she knows the footstep—well the voice she hears,
Caroling his love song—well she knows the strain,
"I am with her ever—in sunshine or in rain;
She will only treasure through the coming years,
Love shall be her sunshine and banish all her tears.
Yes, love shall be our sunshine and banish all our tears."

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

Mrs. Viola Sloper, of Independence, is visiting friends in Corvallis.

Revival services at the Baptist Tabernacle every evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Hon. John Daly is back from Toledo, where he spent the early portion of the week.

Ladies are invited to call and see the new line of chamois skin gloves just received at Kline's.

Ad. Harmon, a prominent business man of Roseburg, spent a couple of days in Corvallis this week.

Manager Howell is in Portland this week arranging for leading attractions to play at the Corvallis opera house.

E. E. Paddock and wife came up from Independence Monday, and are visiting with relatives in this city.

The meeting of the teachers' association announced to occur at Philomath tomorrow has been postponed one week.

A new cornetist made its appearance at the Rosebrook residence last Saturday evening. The mother is doing nicely.

The church notices were crowded out this week. Services, however, will be held as usual at the various houses of worship.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will give a chicken supper at Mrs. Hemphill's dining room this evening from 4 to 11. Price, 25 cents.

At the last session of the county court, a warrant was issued to Sheriff Osburn, commanding him to collect all delinquent taxes for the years 1883 to 1892, inclusive.

Col. W. H. Taylor, of London, Eng., is here on a visit with his old friend J. H. Brand, with whom he is interested in several large mining properties located in the southern part of the state.

While playing "black man" at the public school grounds Wednesday afternoon, Johnnie Caskey slipped, and one of his playmates fell over him, breaking his right leg just below the thigh.

Mr. A. E. Lyford and family and Mr. L. D. Burgh and wife arrived here Monday from Rock Island, Ill. The former have taken up their residence in the Wilson cottage on 5th street.

Presbyterians lead in charitable enterprises. They have just completed a new eight foot sidewalk along the north side of their property to accommodate those attending services at the Baptist church.

The fishing season just closed has been a very good one for Yaquina bay. The run has been equal to expectations. The season has demonstrated the great need of a canyery on the bay.—Lincoln Leader.

Tommy Jones has lost his pocket book. On the inside cover is printed in beautiful gilt letters the owner's name. By returning it safely to this office, the finder will be rewarded with the entire contents of the book.

The "Brownies" will be produced under the management of the Presbyterian ladies at an early date. The entertainment has been arranged from Palmer Cox's stories of these cunning little fellows and will be new and interesting.

Steve Whitmore, who deals extensively in Pacific Coast lumber, returned to his home in Pittsburgh, Pa., on Wednesday. He was accompanied on his return by Mrs. Millie Smith, who goes on a six months visit to her sister, Mrs. Whitmore.

Members of Camp No. 5, Indian War Veterans, are requested to meet at the county court room tomorrow, November 17, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing officers and transacting such other business as may properly come before the camp.

The weather forecast for the coming week predicts such heavy and closely matted fog that only those having thin or sparsely settled beards will be able to navigate. You had better get Spencer & Case to weed out your whiskers and take a few reefs in your hair.

C. H. Gleim left on Wednesday's train for his old home in Des Moines, Iowa, where his father, who is now in his 81st year, is not expected long to survive the illness with which he is now suffering. This will be Mr. Gleim's first visit to his parents since 1888.

Four hundred and twenty pupils are in daily attendance at the public schools. With one or two exceptions, all the rooms are crowded to overflowing, and teachers are unable to pay the attention to scholars that they deserve. At least two additional departments are needed. These could be had by remodeling the attic of the building now in use, with an outlay of perhaps $800.

Bert Van Cleave has taken a position at the asylum, instead of taking the road with the Stettin Dramatic Company as was reported. He will conduct the private theatricals at the asylum and will no doubt enjoy the work much better than traveling about.—Salem Journal.

Corvallis is to have a new business house. It will be a branch of the well and favorably known music house of Wiley B. Allen & Co., and will be managed by Mr. Frank Anry, of Salem, who will give an exhibition of pianos at the Walker furniture store next Thursday afternoon.

S. Chipman left a branch of American Pippin apples at this office this week, that in point of yield will be hard to beat. The branch was but twelve inches in length, and upon it had grown to maturity thirty large, well-formed apples. Of this number, a two-inch twig had produced six.

Col. Lane, the special Indian inspector, will begin paying off the Indians at the Siletz today. The census roll shows about 315 Indians qualified to receive payment at the present time. This will distribute nearly $24,000 among the Indians on the reservation.—Lincoln Leader.

The chief of police could find plenty of sidewalks on which to employ his spare time by simply taking a stroll along several of the back streets. At the corner of 6th and Madison streets the walk is really dangerous, and if it fails to receive immediate attention the city is liable to be the defendant in a damage suit for a broken leg.

E. D. Horner has been awarded the contract for painting the roof, cornice, doors and iron grating and whitewashing the ceilings of the county jail for the sum of $16, the work to be completed by the 1st of December. John Bier also has a contract for cementing the outside of the building and, when completed, it will present a very respectable appearance.

C. H. Nash and family left this week for Tacoma, Wash., where they intend making their future residence. For ten years Mr. Nash has been known as one of the most industrious farmers in Benton county, and takes with him the best wishes of the community for his future success. He intends engaging in the commission business, and will handle farm products such as butter, eggs, vegetables and fruit.

Superintendent Holm has been actively engaged during the past several weeks paying official visits to the county schools. Already 42 districts have been visited, and the other 18 will receive attention before the end of the month. Mr. Holm's untiring efforts in behalf of the educational interests of Benton county are thoroughly appreciated, and school patrons have reason to congratulate themselves on having selected such a conscientious and able worker.

W. B. Chase, engineer for the Portland Bridge Commission, returned home yesterday after a short visit with friends in this city. Mr. Chase has been in charge of the Burnside street bridge recently completed and made his final report to the commission last Monday. It is said to be the finest steel bridge on the coast and will be a lasting monument to the skill and ability of Mr. Chase, who designed and superintended the construction of this most magnificent steel structure.

Although eighty-two cases appeared on the docket, this was the most uninteresting term of court held in Benton county for years. Prosecuting Attorney G. M. Brown has been busy during the week examining witnesses before the grand jury which has returned five bills. The grand jury was composed of J. C. Walker, foreman, Chas. L. Heckart, John Curn, D. B. Irvine, J. M. Currier, J. W. Foster, and A. Flickinger. Attorneys from abroad were R. S. Strahan, Portland; H. D. Norton, Eugene; L. Elin, H. H. Hewitt and J. Fred Yates, Albany.

Mrs. W. T. Hoffman is in receipt of a letter from her daughter, Maud, stating that Mr. Wilson Barrett's company, of which she is a member, would sail from Liverpool last Wednesday, on the steamer Britannica. They open an eight week's engagement at the American theatre in New York on the 23rd inst. The letter to her mother contained a sprig of rosemary, which will be highly prized. It was taken from a vine growing about the home of the immortal Shakespeare, and presented to Miss Hoffman by a descendant of Anne Hathaway.

Three years ago, while superintendent of an exhibit car known as "Oregon on Wheels," ye editor met at Peoria, Ill., a gentleman named F. T. Ray. He appeared very much interested in Oregon and intimated that at some future date he expected to become a citizen of the Webfoot state. The products seen in the car were a wonder and so favorably impressed him with the possibilities of the Willamette valley that a year later he moved west with his family and located near Eugene, where he is prospering. Last Saturday Mr. Ray called on the writer, when a renewal was had of the acquaintance made three years ago in Illinois.

B. S. Harris came up from Portland last Saturday and has been visiting his brother, J. H. Harris, during the week. He leaves soon for San Francisco.

WANTED.

A house and lot in Corvallis; centrally located. Also a farm of about 100 acres, near town. Must be cheap but desirable. Address "Farm," care GAZETTE.

Upon the co-operative plan the Episcopal church held a little Arbor day exercise of their own last Monday. The ladies of the church contributed a lunch and the men, under the direction of Prof. Coote, donated two hours labor in beautifying the grounds. About fifty dollars worth of shrubbery was planted and the yard promises to present a tasty appearance. The precedent is a good one and other churches would do well to follow it.

Prof. Geo. Denman closed his term of school in district No. 93, last Saturday evening. The splendid program and the excellent manner in which it was rendered proves Mr. Denman to be, not only a teacher of splendid ability, but an earnest, energetic worker. The program was pronounced by the school patrons to be the best ever produced in the district. It consisted of recitations, readings and tableaux by the pupils, a reading, "The old Stagedrivers story," by Mr. J. F. Allen, Mr. Geo. L. Paul recited "Eugene Aram's Dream," and a quartette furnished excellent music.

For several weeks Prof. Pratt and his pupils were engaged in preparing patriotic songs, recitations and quotations for the patriotic literary exercises which occurred at the public school building last Friday afternoon. Each of the pupils took part in the exercises with a zest and enthusiasm that plainly told they were children of patriotic America. From the gray-haired veterans of the G. A. R. and loyal women of the W. R. C. who were present by special invitation, they seemed to gather inspiration, and each acquitted himself with credit. These exercises are to occur each term, and from them many useful lessons will be learned.

The Baptists had a glorious day last Sunday at their dedicatory services. One hundred and thirty dollars was raised, and the pastor, Rev. Dorward, assumed the balance of the debt. So everything as it now stands—at a cost of $500—is provided for. Rev. Dorward informs the GAZETTE that they ought to have fifty more chairs and also that the building should be papered. The church, he says, is thankful, however, for the victory already achieved, and feel very grateful to the general public for its generous assistance, and the Presbyterian choir for its excellent music as accorded special thanks. Rev. Dorward was ably assisted in the services by Rev. M. L. Rugg, of Salem; Rev. J. Fred Jenkins, of Independence, and Rev. McKee, of Albany. The state Baptist Missionary, Rev. Gilman Parker, will be here soon for a few weeks and through his efficient help and the united efforts of the members, they hope to materially strengthen the church. Baptismal service will occur next Sunday evening.

That Oregon should be known as the land of fruit and flowers is indeed fitting. Fresh strawberries have been in the market all fall, and the roses, which adorn the door yard of nearly every Corvallis home, have been in bloom continuously until now, when the chrysanthemums are putting forth their delicate tinted blossoms to indicate that the football season is at hand and the frosts of winter may soon be expected. Their unusual size and beauty also indicates that Japan, of which country the chrysanthemum is emblematic, is successfully waging war against the Chinese, and may be expected to soon occupy and control the situation in the Far East. All this information probably has nothing to do with the case. The real news item follows: Andy Emrick brought to this office last Saturday several bunches of blossoms taken from Bartlett pear trees growing in his yard in the western part of town. The trees have been in bloom continually for several weeks and strange to say fruit is forming, which will probably mature should the weather continue favorable.

E. Diddams and J. M. Maxfield, of Le Roy, Minnesota, arrived here last Friday, and are looking around with a view to locating. Mr. Diddams has been engaged in dairying for several years, but disposed of his interests before starting west. A change of climate is desired on account of the health of his family, who are unable to longer endure the excessively cold winters of Minnesota. Mr. Maxfield is a brother of A. M. Maxfield, who came here about a year ago, and is living in Belmont addition. He is a retired farmer now in the lively business in Le Roy. Glowing accounts of the climate and possibilities of Webfoot, together with the disturbing influence of a cyclone, which visited Mr. Maxfield's locality during the summer, and carried off and demolished the roof of his home, induced him to personally investigate the advantages that would accrue to him by reason of a change of residence. He is very much pleased with Corvallis and vicinity, and his location here within the next twelve months is among the probabilities. Both gentlemen are persons of means, and will be desirable additions to the community.

Everybody in town knows John Scraftord's dog, Bruno, and all of his acquaintances like him, too. He is such a large fine specimen of a dog, and such an orderly, unassuming fellow that he has become a great favorite with all. And, too, he saved one of our boys—Bruce Burnett—from drowning in the waters of the Alsea river a year ago, and to this fact, also, is due much of his popularity. Although a peaceable individual, Bruno never allows other dogs to put on airs in his presence. He is monarch of all he surveys and any attempt to usurp his rights brings on a battle, which invariably results in an easy victory for him. This was the result last Monday night, when a large bull dog, imported from Salem, expressly to whip the Corvallis champion, was most gloriously defeated. From the outset it was plainly apparent that the Salem canine was being worsted. Bruno had about as his wind off, and but for the arrival of his master, who stopped the scrap, the Salem dog would soon have been a mangled corpse. Bruno appeared on the street next morning, as usual, but the Salem fighter is still laid up for repairs.

Good news for farmers, mechanics and workmen: We will have a full line of the celebrated "Ball Breeches" for men and boys on Saturday, the 10th. Nolan's.

Karl's Clover Root will purify your blood, clear your complexion, regulate your bowels and make your head clear as a bell. 25c. 50c. and $1.00. Sold by Graham & Wells.

NEWBY COLLEGE NOTES.

Miss Ora McFarland and Mr. Joe Bethune paid their homes at Albany a visit last Sunday.

The class in physiology is now working on the tissues, muscles, etc., as seen under the microscope.

We are informed that the next lecture at the college will be given in about three weeks by a member of congress.

The two literary societies all meet on Monday afternoons, and visitors are always welcome at their exercises. Great improvement is noted already in the performances of the members.

Prof. Horner's class in elocution now numbers seventy members. It was found necessary at its last meeting to divide the class because of its great size. The course will consist of twelve lessons, and is open to all students.

The worthy manager of the football team has recently had to take several buggy rides "on business bent." Nobody objects to this, but the boys say its a shame that he doesn't travel alone when he goes to Albany. How about it?

The appearance of the boys at the dress parade drill last Monday was especially fine and would compare favorably with many of the companies of the state militia. There is exhibition drill of the cadets every Monday afternoon, and it is a sight well worth seeing.

The football fraternity is jubilant now, the reason being that the long looked for coach will appear definitely on the scene next Monday. He is a gentleman from the Sunny South (east) and he "comes without calling," as the saying is. This will help to inspire our team to harder efforts for the future games, and a struggle worthy of seeing will take place on the gridiron field Thanksgiving day.

The football team goes to Monmouth next Saturday to play the second of its games in the collegiate championship series. The boys are confident of success, but expect a much harder game than the ones played with Monmouth last season. It is reported that the monmouth team average 185 pounds. If such is the case, it will be the first game in which the O. A. C. team will be outclassed in weight. It had been expected that a boat would give the people of Corvallis a chance to cheer their pets on to victory, but owing to the rapid fall of the river the boat will be unable to connect, and the team will be obliged to go either by train or private conveyance. The team is composed of the following men: McAllister, Burnett, Bodine, Desborough, C. Phillips, M. Phillips, Owsley, Stimpson, Stemler, Godwin, Terrell, Abernethy, Smith, Kelsey and Porter. It will not be known who will play until the morning of the game. We notice two new men on the team—Kelsey and Smith. These men will strengthen the rush line greatly, and will also add several pounds to the total weight of the team. Kelsey's aggressive playing has been noticed already in the practice games, and we expect to hear a good account of him in the coming contest. Smith is new to the game, but is as strong as a young Samson; weight over 200 pounds, and when he understands the game will no doubt form one of the bulwarks of the team. Quite a number of townspeople have decided to attend the game, and eight professors, and numerous students will form the college part of the audience.

DESERVES COMMENDATION.

Col. J. F. Farquhar, of Roseburg, recently said: "Some years ago, when Judge Burnett was on the bench, (and by the way he was one of the most righteous judges that ever adjudged others' affairs), I took a prisoner from Roseburg to Corvallis. It was late in the afternoon when we came into town, and I took the prisoner direct to the jail. I took a look at the old shack of a jail, and said to myself that I'd never put a man in that kind of a sepulcher. Court was in session, and it just struck me that I would face the music; so I took my charge with me into the old court house, and reported my mission to his honor, who informed me that I should hand the prisoner over to the sheriff, to be incarcerated in the jail. Of course, the judge, who is a very humane man, had but one alternative, or he would never have made such an order; however, it was too much for a man who had seen hard times, as I have, and I said: 'Well, judge, any man who would be guilty of putting another man in that old death-trap ought to go to state's prison himself.' We quote the above to show that there were some people who thought the jail ought to have been repaired many years ago. No person with a particle of regard for the rights of others will censure the court for its action in the matter. It was a humane act and deserves commendation rather than criticism.

A Revelation of the Possibilities of Piano Music.

Mr. Frank Anry, manager of the Wiley B. Allen Co.'s branch store at Salem, has made arrangements to exhibit the wonderful A. B. Chase octavo piano at L. Walker & Co.'s furniture store, Corvallis, on next Thursday, Nov. 22d, from 2 to 9 p. m. The octavo pedal is something entirely new, and with it any one can play in perfect octaves. In striking one key, two notes sound, in striking two keys, four notes sound; always double what you get on any other piano. Musical echoes, and other wonderful effects are easily obtained. Mr. Carl Denton, of Salem, will play on the piano, and explain some of the beautiful effects produced on this marvelous instrument. All are invited. Special introductory prices will be given for a short time.

A 50-Cent Show for 15 Cents.

Hamilton's Wizard Oil Co. open a series of six entertainments in the opera house next Monday night, Nov. 19th, and we assure our readers that they will get fully fifty cents worth of refined amusement for 15 cents. They carry a fine male quartette, a good company of specialty artists, and a funny little man only 40 inches high. Combined, they give a more pleasing entertainment than most of the higher priced shows traveling. Attend Monday night and you will do so all week. The admission is only 15 cents.

OLD ORCHARDS MADE NEW.

The Subject of an Interesting Paper Read by Prof. Geo. Coote at McMinnville.

Recently the Yamhill County Horticultural Society met at Whitson. Prof. Geo. Coote was present and opened the program with a very interesting talk on the above mentioned topic. As there are many old orchards in this section which might be improved by following Mr. Coote's suggestions, the following brief resume of his remarks is taken from the Yamhill County Reporter, in hopes that GAZETTE readers will profit by the information.

"He said many people did not appreciate the importance of this subject. Scattered all over the Willamette valley were orchards that people regarded as old. They were planted thirty or forty years ago and were really young orchards. Haller speaks of an apple tree a thousand years old and Knight refers to trees two hundred years old, grown in a climate similar to ours. The reason that so many of the Oregon orchards appear old and dilapidated is because of neglect of proper care and cultivation. Lack of manuring is one of the most prominent causes of deterioration. It is necessary to return something to the soil for what is annually taken away in order to maintain thrifty growth and obtain fine fruit. Some horticulturists think that manuring impairs the health of trees by stimulating too rapid growth. It might be true of young orchards but not so with old ones. He had experimented with different kinds of fertilizers and obtained best results from barnyard manure.

Proper pruning is the next step to the restoration of an old orchard. Pruning means thinning out properly. He did not recommend too severe cutting back. He had used no means of removing moss from the trees, but found that by opening the tops and letting in the sunlight, moss disappeared. Orchards or occasional trees that bear inferior fruit should be top-grafted. The best results would be gained by top-grafting one-half of the trees at a time, taking two years for the job, as too severe cutting back is injurious to the tree. The next thing in the course of treatment is cultivation of the ground. In his experiments he had plowed eight or ten inches deep the first year, pruning the roots as well as the tops, and causing new fibrous growth. Afterward had cultivated more shallow; would cultivate every two weeks in spring and early summer, but never later than the first of August. Three years is sufficient to transform an old orchard so that the fruit will not be recognizable either in appearance or flavor. As fine fruit can be grown upon trees thus treated and brought out as upon young ones. It takes from eight to ten years to bring a young orchard into bearing, and in the light of investment, there is money in rejuvenating old orchards."

A very commendable act has been the effort of Miss Margaret Snell to raise the necessary funds to purchase shade trees to plant about the public school building. The citizens have been solicited to contribute and it is the intention to purchase white elm trees to be planted this fall around the school house block on the outside of the walk, and also to plant evergreen vines as a screen to the outbuildings. When the trees have matured the effect will certainly be a pleasing one and the public school square will become one of the attractive spots of town. Comparison of the present scene in the courthouse yard with what it formerly was will show what a very little landscape gardening can do. When these trees have been planted the school directors should see to it that they receive proper care and attention.

And now that a beginning has been made, it seems that it would not be a bad plan to make it a part of the janitor's duty to tend and care for the grounds. No additional expense would be incurred, yet the result would be an ornament to the district and to the city.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

The Wiley B. Allen Co. have decided to bring a stock of pianos and organs to Corvallis and sell them direct to the purchasers. Mr. Frank Anry, their manager at Salem, will be here next week, at L. Walker & Co.'s furniture store. Their stock consists of Chickering, Hardman, A. B. Chase, Fischer and other pianos, and Estey, Chicago, Cottage and other organs. During the first week, very low introductory prices will be given, either for cash or on easy installments.

Three Leading Scientists

Proclaim the Superior Value of ## Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

Scientists are devoting closer attention to food products. Recent examinations of baking powders by Prof. Long, Dr. Haines, and Prof. Prescott, were made to determine which powder was the purest, highest in leavening strength, most efficient in service, and most economical in cost. They decide that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder excels in all the essentials of an ideal preparation for household use. They write:—

"Chicago, March 28th, 1894.

We have purchased in the open market cans of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder and also of the other leading brands of baking powders, and have submitted them to chemical analysis. We find that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is a pure cream of tartar powder, that is has a considerably greater leavening strength than any of the other baking powders we have ever tested.
